Unit Goal: How did decisions made by colonial powers influence decisions made by post-colonial leaders?
Essential Question: How did Belgian eugenics practices impact people in Rwanda?

Anticipated Student Pre-conceptions/misconceptions: Knowledge of European colonialism and imperialism.
Materials/resources: video, creation story, video notes and creation story analysis assignment
Overview of the Lesson: Predict how the narrative pushed by the Belgian leaders might play into the impending genocide.

Lesson Opening: Bellwork- Why did European countries colonize African nations? What benefits were they hoping to gain?	Tips/Strategies/Suggestions: If students do not have previous knowledge of this topic this Bellwork question should be substituted for a short introduction to colonialism.
Teaching Input: Play video and stop at 3:00 (three minute mark) https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KfbXZ_uo0no Creation story intro	Tips/Strategies/Suggestions: This entire video is very information and helpful. If there is extra time showing the remainder would be beneficial to further instruction.
Student Activity: Creation story analysis	Tips/Strategies/Suggestions: It is worth pointing out the date that this origin story was created.
Closing: End Bellwork- What actions do you think the Belgians will take when Rwandans begin to consider declaring independence?	Tips/Strategies/Suggestions: You may want to prompt with considerations of how the British responded to US colonies considering independence.

Resources for Lesson Extension Students may be interested in eugenics performed at other times in history: Nazi Germany, testing in US populations (syphilis study etc.)
