

Madison Mueth

Two Countries, One Generation

I am Rwandan

I am American

We are both part of the millennial generation

My parents didn't have the opportunity to go to college

My parents received an associates degree.

Both of our parents encouraged our education

Education is a way for me to survive and own my own business

Education is a way for me to educate the young minds of our future.

Our generation is determined to make our world a better place.

We will be self-employed and create more jobs for my people.

We will be more accepting of others no matter what their background is.

Even though we are both from different countries.

And even though we have experienced different events in our lives.

We are ready to change our lives, community, and the world for the better.